SCHOOL BOOKS ARE TO BE BURNED

If Dr. J. W. Pideck, the county physician, does not change his mind in the next few days all the books of the Warren school will be piled in a heap and burned. He says he has made a careful investigation of the diphtheria epidemic that has prevailed in that district for some time and has come to the conclusion that diphtheria germs are held in the school books.

The old school well has been filled and a new one opened, sanitary regulations and strict quarantine have been established assiduously and still diphtheria prevails. He has not definitely decided to have the books burned, but he is strongly of the opinion that he will have it done. He thinks the books are infected and that the disease cannot be eradicated until the books are done away with.

Tomorrow the county physician says the quarantine in Warren will be raised on all cases except two. Quarantine will not be lifted from the school for another week.

The doctor says sanitary conditions can never be made the best in the little town, as it is necessary for the people to use well water. Surface wells have caused a great deal of trouble in the outer districts of the county, but there is no remedy, as that is the only means by which water for culinary purposes can be obtained.
